Dear Friends,

WELCOME TO THE FIRST ISSUE OF THE GLOBALHOOD NEWSLETTER!

Globalhood, incorporated officially on March 1st, 2007 (with still pending nonprofit status), provides consultancy and project incubation services. Our mission is to create innovative international and community development projects by bringing together people and knowledge across disciplines.

We strive to bring a fresh approach to the ways development work is conducted by promoting and facilitating efficient collaboration and communication across diverse disciplines, professions, sectors, cultures, and between development practitioners and their intended beneficiary populations, towards a common goal of sustainably addressing global development challenges.

If you haven't already, please check us out on the web at www.globalhood.org, and don't forget to read our frequently-updated blog on all things international-development related, at www.globalhood.org/blog/.

Our Research Program

A primary goal for Globalhood is to PROVE through our work that collaborating holistically across perspectives and professions results in improved achievements towards addressing local and global development challenges, and is therefore necessary in order to implement ethical, sustainable, and effective initiatives for traditionally marginalized populations. Our researchers are actively committed to put forward the lessons learned from past development shortcomings, to assist NGOs and Non-Profits, Universities, the Private Sector, Governments, and Globalhood itself, in achieving success stories.
